More than 100 Design Events in the city

Over the years, Brussels Design September has become the annual flagship event for design enthusiasts. For one month, the city hosts an array of over 100 unmissable cultural and commercial events offering a meeting platform between the public and a great number of Belgian and international designers.

Brussels Design September will feature exhibitions, conferences, open houses, an Arts & Crafts tour, Commerce Design Brussels and Brussels Design Market. A multitude of dialogues between designers, architects and design lovers as well as the chance to discover urban trails between the many pop-up stores, shops, workshops, galleries and cultural spaces.

This year's edition will be marked by the latest trends in Belgian and international design and will be highlighted by the multi-disciplinary spirit of different influences, movements, crafts and professions of current day design.

Highlights and news of Brussels Design September 2018

This year, Brussels Design September introduces a couple of new events.

Exhibitions by renown designers in iconic places in the city like KANAL/Centre Pompidou, Horta House, BOZAR or MAD Brussels reinforce the cultural offer of this edition 2018.

For the first time, Design September will take place in the public space of the city centre.

In collaboration with BOZAR Open Air, the landscape designer Bas Smets and the collective POOL IS COOL have been invited to rethink the urban layout of the rue Baron Horta, next to the Centre For Fine Arts.

Brussels Design Market will highlight the image of Brussels, a city of vintage: a vintage route in the city, an exhibition by Georges Pelletier at Tour & Taxis will mark in other words the 25th edition of the Brussels Design Market, which is the biggest vintage market in Europe.

An Eco Design route will highlight the innovation of our designers in research, and innovation for more sustainable solutions. In collaboration with hub.brussels we will also put the Eco Design in value in Brussels retail.

The Arts&Crafts itinerary brings a focus this year on Textile Design. Workshops and textile designers will be highlighted . A collective exhibition will be presented at the BIP located rue Royale.

Finally, the news of belgian design will be proposed with Alain Berteau, who with Objekten will present his solutions for office furniture, Xavier Lust to name a few.

Brussels city of design

Today we want to reinforce the image of Brussels as an attractive and dynamic capital: we will highlight the innovation of our young designers but also through various events related to Design to enhance the commercial attractiveness of the city.

These few past years, Brussels has incontestably developed itself as city of Design. Thanks to the talent and the ingeniousness of our designers. The place of Design in the city starts to have its noble letters. Design September always wanted to connect with the city and represent its various exaltations and diversities. The importance of the event and its influence takes shape more and more: design in its most various forms takes an increasingly important place in the daily life of Brussels: urban furniture, installations, lights,... Innovations of our designers in the urban landscape. It has contributed in a positive way to the city's reputation and to its economic and tourist activity. Brussels needs events that put creativity and innovation in the front row. Design September is proud to contribute to it.

Production of an urban layout in collaboration with Bozar :

In the framework of BOZAR Open Air 2018, the landscape designer Bas Smets and the collective POOL IS COOL have been invited to rethink the urban layout of the rue Baron Horta, next to the Centre For Fine Arts. Their common project answers the logic of « closed ecosystem » and falls in with the network of green parks of the Brussels city centre. The trees together with the shadow pool proposed by POOL IS COOL coexist for a whole season to create, along with the studio Piovenefabi's furniture, a green space for fun and leisure, open and free to all. The space also proposes cultural activities and a bar for you to refresh and relax.

Commerce Design

Following the initiative launched by Montreal City in 1995, the Commerce Design Brussels competition encourages collaboration, as it does in other cities, between traders and design professionals within Brussels region. A simple analysis of the projects of award winners from the previous competitions reveals that professionals and creative people are no longer reserved to the luxury field or the fashionable and connected districts but are present throughout the Region's towns.

This event has served as a strategic tool for the city and its businesses in order to reveal the benefits of quality design, realised by qualified professionals in terms of the management plan of these spaces.

The initiative was immediately followed by other cities in the world (Saint-Etienne, Marseille, Lyon, Nantes, Luxembourg, Eindhoven, ...), which was initiated and coordinated by Pro Materia and Design September (with support from the City of Montréal, the Brussels Capital Region, hub.brussels and institutional and private partners). Like last year Commerce Design Brussels will take place in synergy with Brussels Design September. A synergy which will make it possible to give a national and international reach to this initiative and better integration with the challenges of the city and its commercial and urban development policy. Thanks to the support from Brussels region, hub.brussels and, the competition will reach a large target audience of businesses and designers involved in Brussels.

New for this 2018 edition, the Eco design in Brussels retail will be highlighted.

The Brussels Agency for Business Accompaniment will take advantage of this opportunity to present its own prize, created for the occasion: the "Commerce Eco-Design Brussels - Award"! This prize will reward the business that has best adapted the theme chosen for the 2018 edition of Design September: eco-design.

Philosophy

Ross Lovegrove is a designer and visionary who's work is considered to be at the very apex of stimulating a profound change in the physicality of our three dimensional world.

Inspired by the logic and beauty of nature his design possess a trinity between technology, materials science and intelligent organic form, creating what many industrial leaders see as the new aesthetic expression for the 21st Century. There is always embedded a deeply human and resourceful approach in his designs, which project an optimism, and innovative vitality in everything he touches from cameras to cars to trains, aviation and architecture.

PATRICK NORGUET

27.09 / 8.15pm - Flagey

Place sainte croix, B1050

Patrick Norguet approaches objects and design from a graphical perspective. Since childhood, he has preferred sketchbooks to textbooks, filling them up with sketches and drawings. A "hands-on" approach of industry and design studies in Paris (ESDI) mark the unusual profile of this constructive rebel.

His career underwent a dramatic change in 2000 when Giulio Cappellini spotted his now famous Rainbow Chair. He joined the circle of designers that matter and created his Parisian studio. Since that time, he has been designing for major producers (Tacchini, Kristalia, Cassina, Alia, Tolix...) and renowned brands.

For Patrick Norguet, design is, first and foremost, about happy encounters. What he is most passionate about is exchanging with manufacturers, discovering their know-how; the impulse of a creative intention refined by technical constraints, economic stakes and the expectations of a user whom he hopes to discreetly but durably win over.

Drawing inspiration from everything that surrounds him, Patrick Norguet does not follow trends but seeks to give shape to products whose relevance and modernity would withstand the test of time: "A well-designed object, an object created through generous collaboration is timeless."

From consumer products to luxury objects, Patrick Norguet leaves an impression of authenticity and elegance. Today, he is an essential figure on the international design scene.

MARCIN RUSAK

12.09 / 8.15pm - Flagey

Place sainte croix, B1050

Marcin Rusak (born in 1987, Warsaw, Poland) is an artist and multidisciplinary designer interested in ideas of value, ephemerality and aesthetics. Specializing in storytelling, process and material investigation his work often incorporates research, object and installation as well as visual creations to explore overlooked details of our lives which recreated and reimagined are shown again in a different light.

As the son and grandson of flower growers he has long been fascinated by these natural sources of inspiration and decoration. Engaging them in his creative process began by reusing waste to investigate new decorative elements within every day objects and led to a rich body of work ranging from research and storytelling to cultural criticism around consumption and future scenarios.

STUDIO 5.5

20.09 / 8.15pm - Flagey

Place sainte croix, B1050

www.flagey.be

www.5-5.paris

5•5 is a global design collective founded in August 2003 by Vincent Baranger, Jean-Sébastien Blanc, Anthony Lebossé and Claire Renard, former classmates from the Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Arts Appliqués.

Described first and foremost as a work collective, the 5•5 were pushed into the limelight with their first project, Réanim: La médecine des objets. This project was followed by the Objets ordinaires collection, Ouvriers-Designers for Fondation d'entreprise Bernardaud, and many other emblematic projects that wrote the collective's history and laid the building blocks for their success. Some have described them as the troublemakers of the design world, others as homing missiles. They have gained a reputation as furniture surgeons, political builders and artisans of the idea. They have shaken up and challenged the design world by systematically questioning their craft, or at least their role in the creative process and consumer society.

A period of creative euphoria during which they experimented, designed in all directions, met artisans with extraordinary skills, and were exhibited in museums throughout the world. In addition to their media coverage, they have had the opportunity to anonymously mass-manufacture products and have made their mark in spheres ranging from the luxury market to the mass market, for clients ranging from small publishers to major brands. All of these experiences have served to guide their design practice and mould their viewpoints, values and expertise, helping them define their vision of design.

Their small collective has now become a studio, but its state of mind remains the same. A long-time proponent of collaboration between individuals in a spirit of joy, Studio 5•5 brings together creative collaborators with multidisciplinary backgrounds who follow a comprehensive design approach. 5•5 now represents a structure capable of serving its clients, but which has retained the same convictions as the original collective: to remain close to people, offering useful, aspirational objects for as wide an audience as possible with the aim of brightening up our daily lives.

3. Main lines and news of Brussels Design September 2018

KANAL - CENTRE POMIPDOU BEETWEEN ART & DESIGN – THE BELGIAN SCENE

L'ESSENTIEL PATRICK NORGUET

For 17 years, Patrick Norguet has been working with the most beautiful factories in the world. An exhibition at Ligne will be offering visitors the chance to stroll around his latest creations as part of the Brussels Design Festival from 6 to 30 September 2018.

Originality and timelessness are the keywords for discussing and understanding his work. His respect for consumption and his search for convenience aim to define, with each of the brands, the right products to respond to our needs and to help us in our homes.

Beyond mere shapes, Patrick Norguet sets out to design objects that outlive trends, unique objects created from innovation and high-performance technologies.

He believes that design is above all a story of meetings, passion and expertise, a belief he wants to share through this exhibition and hopes to impart in an enduring manner.

BOZAR OBJETS AMBIGUS. BIJOUX CONTEMPORAINS, UNE PASSION. – Collection de Solange Thierry-de-Saint Rapt.

Solange Thierry-de-Saint Rapt has been passionate about contemporary artists-jewellers since the 1980s. Collecting their most innovative creations is her way of supporting them. She is fascinated by their use of unexpected and innovative materials. The most diverse materials – string, rubber, recycled elements, plastic, etc. - find their way into their jewellery designs, transformed into the most diverse and surprising shapes. During Brussels Design September her collection will be showcased by the Piovenefabi studio and presented in a way that is distinctly unconventional.

ATELIER JESPERS & MODERN SHAPES GALLERY ENRIC MESTRE – ARCHITECTURE IMAGINARY

Enric Mestre is a recognized worldwide .His sculptural objects seem sober spatial constructions; boxlike, slab built architectural structures of austere colours dominated by right angles. But appearances are deceptive. The eye of the beholder detects small projections, subtle displacements and slants which, together with the immediate effect of the material, counteract the angularity of these quiet and well balanced sculptures.

ZAVENTEM ATELIERS LIONEL JADOT

Lionel Jadot is the master improviser of materials. He is known for sewing them with care. With Zaventem Ateliers, he does the same, at the scale of a building: caring for joints between spaces, so that everyone may live and work there in harmony. Zaventem Ateliers is a sanctuary of human creativity. This vast former nineteenth-century paper mill offers its spaces for auspicious meetings between craftsmen, artists and designers. These high level creators have 6000 m² to meet, exchange and produce.

This place of creation and manufacture offers 22 workshops for rent, niches from 80 to 400 m² arranged around a single common area of 800 m² dedicated to personal presentations and collective exhibitions.

Once a year, an outside curator, architect, artist or designer, or why not a director, will be invited to walk through the workshops, select pieces and present a joint exhibition in the main hall.

Finally, Zaventem Ateliers offers lounges and terraces, and an exceptional restaurant with an exceptional chef...

Zaventem Ateliers is inspired by the Singularity, this higher stage of artificial intelligence, which improves by experimenting. Like Big Data, this open and protected place brings together a multitude of human functions: Big Craft!

Deep Learning, which allows Deep Making.

Workshops entrant: Ateliers Armand Jonckers, Atelier Sophie Coucke, Atelier Ben Storms, Dim Atelier, Atelier Braine, Ateliers Charles Schambourg, Atelier Arno Declercq, Atelier Thomas Serruys & Atelier Lionel Jadot

ADAM DESIGN GENERATIONS

Design Generations is an exhibition presented in collaboration with Wallonie-Bruxelles Design-Mode (WBDM) within the framework of Intersections, the ADAM's biennial contemporary design event. It invites visitors to take a fresh look at design by demonstrating the profound value of this profession, which has witnessed and often advocated changes in our society over the last century.

Ten Belgian design companies explain their approach through a selection of products, some from the past (permanently held in the Museum), some from the present (taken from their current collections) and some from the future (imaginary objects).

Through its multi-sensory approach, which reveals spatio-temporal links and intersections, the exhibition offers a true experience of the world of design, improving our understanding of the lives of the objects that surround us and of their intelligence, both retroactive and prospective. They are the interfaces of our everyday lives, custodians of the precious legacies of the past, agents of social and aesthetic experiences, models for sustainable production and development, and vehicles for innovative scenarios promising a better future.

HORTA MUSEUM NATURE OF THINGS

Midway between the ephemeral and the aesthetic, flowers due to be recycled are rescued by Marcin Rusak, who gives them a new lease of life. He incorporates them into tables and lamps, as well as sculptures. Through his creations, he investigates the nature of obsolescence; each work develops in its own way, bacteria and light cause every piece to evolve over time. But let us hear from the artist himself : "Once the flowers fulfil our decorative or symbolic needs, they become an unwanted and discarded reminiscence of life. Treated and processed, through my materials they regain significance and become part of a work which references their very temporary nature. I use them as a medium to talk about consumption where I investigate the flower production landscape, and other times I use them as a material itself."

KANAL / CENTRE POMPIDOU

INSTITUT CULTUREL ITALIEN JOUETS A JOUER – OBJETS DANS LA FORET

With the current international focus on Radical Design, or Contro Design, the Centro Studi Poltronova is presenting, as part of September Design 2018, a historical exhibition at the Italian Cultural Institute in Brussels. The exhibition brings together, for the first time, a series of iconic objects designed and produced by Poltronova between the late 1960s and early 1970s, when Ettore Sottsass was the company's art director. The exhibition includes the Superonda sofa, the Sanremo lamp and Archizoom Associati's Mies armchair; the Sofa armchair/sofa, the T01 coffee table, and Superstudio's Gherpe and Passiflora lamps; Ettore Sottsass's Ultrafragola mirror/lamp and De Pas, D'Urbino and Lomazzi iconic armchair Joe.

The goal of the exhibition is to communicate the extraordinary vitality and irreverence that distinguished these design projects at the time of their conception – a vitality and irreverence that live on even today. These almost over-sized toys, then and now, are objects that challenge the automatism of consumer society through their hybrid use, which guarantees a total freedom of approach.

The exhibition, also thanks to the way it is arranged, which, like the exhibition's subtitle, aesthetically echoes the series of paintings in Alberto Savinio's "transparent cities", communicates the colourful, explosive vitality of those years, suggesting that it is still possible to be in sync with those designs even today.

PRAGUE HOUSE MECHANICAL

Today's digital and IT-focused age provides us with many tools to make our lives easier or simpler. At the same time however it deprives us of many previously natural abilities and skills. We are losing our sense of orientation, we don't know how to plan, and if we can't find a piece of information on Google, we think it doesn't exist. Likewise, due to the massive spread of 3D modelling and print, new generations of students are losing their intuition for materials and their tectonics, for a sense of scale. Perhaps it is just a period of transition, after which an age of bionics will come and all today's technologies will be incorporated into qualitatively new beings.

Before that happens, we want to provide students with real-world experiences through the use of analogue processes – sketching by hand, working with materials in the workshop, using basic mechanical principles.

Our presentation focuses on the mechanical propulsion of various products or artistic objects. Students of the Product Design studio created analogue clocks, gramophones, toys and moving sculptures that use the "guts" of old alarm clocks, sewing machines, mechanical winding mechanisms or the principles thereof.

We believe in the playfulness and also the aesthetic of machines, which can help us expand our virtual horizons.

4. Art&Crafts : Focus on Brussels Design Textile

With this tour, we want to feature those who contribute to the pride of Brussels textile design know-how. The reasons that led us to develop this journey around the textile design of Brussels are simple but essential: to focus on the rise of creators and excellent teaching being produced in the Brussels Capital.

Innovation in weaving, printing and knitting will be highlighted in this course. We are proud to highlight this branch of design that is part of the wealth of the history of the City of Brussels at the textile level.

More than 15 shops will open their doors to the public, with each one presenting the work of one, or more, textile designer(s).

Finally, a collective exhibition of participants of the route will be organized at the BIP, Place Royale.

A+Z DESIGN

EGGSHELL ALCHEMY

As a textile and visual artist, Geneviève Levivier has exhibited internationally her contemporary tapestries rich of innovation and poetry (Museum of Sculpture of Sao Paulo, Triennale of Milan, Exposition Universelle of Milan, Textifood-Lille3000...) For this edition, dedicated to eco-textiles, she will present her latest large-format textile creations EGG SHELL by GENEVIEVE LEVIVIER®. These creations have already received significant recognition: An innovation grant, finalist at the 2018 Incidence Trophy for a circular economy, distinguished by the publication "60 Walloon innovations 2017" and have been exhibited at the Universal Exhibition Milan and at the Textifood-Lille3000. After having created for 10 years, with her studio A + Z DESIGN®, the most refined and surprising textiles for the most prestigious fashion houses, such as Dior, Alaïa or Gaultier, Geneviève Levivier is nowadays mainly devoted to the creation of contemporary tapestries and in situ installations rich in visual and tactile surprises.

LEOPARD

Linda Topic and Léa Ricorday join their forces to define a research field that questions the leopard. An animal, a print, the great predator, a classic motif, a symbol of power, an emblem of vulgarity and sexiness, pure fantasy ... What happens when its forms intercross or when used as an attire? Besides, what specific species of panther inspired our current graphic representations? When did the first feline motifs appear and what do they imply? What is the relationship between Shiva, Betty Page and Mobutu and the woman seen on the subway yesterday? What are we showing off in the streets with our designs? Of what is the city the playground?

In books, on the street, through gathered anecdotes and collected knowledge, in the workshop, at the café, Léa Ricorday and Linda Topic question the leopard's presence, its proliferation, its persistence, its insistence and many mutations.

5. Eco Design : a route on innovation in Brussels

Environmental and ecological issues are enormously present in the current design. Getting out of the linear economy, designing products that can easily be reused, repaired, reinvented and recycled are the prerogatives of many Brussels designers.

To highlight this trend, in collaboration with Mad Brussels and hub.brussels, Design September will put the theme of Eco Design forward for this 13th edition.

Eco Design involves taking into account the respect of the principles of sustainable development from the very beginning of the process of designing an object, a building or a service. Its principles are to create in respect of the environment, to limit the ecological footprint, to use less and better the raw materials and to think about non-polluting modes of manufacture. The reflection is on the life cycle of the product and its components, its lifespan, its possibilities of reuse, recycling, revaluation, or composting until the end of its life.

The goal of eco design is to produce without destroying, improving the quality of life and changing the habits of the consumer. The designer is looking for new solutions that are more respectful of the environment without losing the desire for aesthetics and functionality.

Through projects, Belgian brands, prototypes, exhibitions this focus will prove that young and old Belgian designers are at the forefront of innovation for the development of products that respect the environment.

MAD BUY NOW PAY LATER. EVERYTHING SHOULD BE ECODESIGN.

From September 7th to October 7th, MAD will be presenting the exhibition Buy Now Pay Later. Everything should be ecodesign.

Buy Now Pay Later is the personal credit slogan that symbolizes blind, thoughtless consumption. Removed from its traditional context, this consumerist slogan here confronts us with a highly pragmatic reality. What if one were to calculate the impact of each product purchased now in order to assess the ecological price that will have to be paid later?

Is it even possible to talk about politics these days without talking about ecology? And likewise, can one even manufacture an object without considering the issue of the ecological footprint? Obviously not. Every object should be ecodesign. To break the deadlock of the linear economy in which waste continues to pile up, it will be necessary to design products that can be easily reused, repaired, reinvented and recycled.

The exhibition explores and disrupts the codes, directly addressing viewers concerns as consumers.

MAD Lab INSIDE MAD Lab

The MAD LAB is MAD's laboratory, a unique hub for innovation and collective intelligence in Brussels dedicated to mutual exchange in the field of design.

Ecodesign is an integral part of any creative process initiated in this multidisciplinary hub, which results in a unique definition when applied in fields including fashion, industrial, service, product, graphic, architecture or accessory design. While for many the term is still vague, the MAD LAB is where the future understanding of ecodesign is written.

For the occasion of Brussels Design September 2018, the young creative talents from the MAD Residencies use the environment of the workspaces to exhibit a selection of projects and share the ins and outs of their creative processes, centered around a common scenography.

The distinct backgrounds of the designers become apparent in the diverging interpretation and application of the ecodesign principles, emphasizing the relevance and applied character of ecodesign for our future.

As this year is a milestone for the institution, former residents of MAD as well guest designers are invited to complete the perspective. It is THE occasion to peek behind the scenes and discover the current location of the hub, before its move to MAD's headquarters.

KARTELL BIO CHAIR

Kartell has always been attentive to the environmental sustainability processes for a product that is entirely recyclable and certified, and follows its research path in the bio world and after a few years of research, today it has found a sustainable and biodegradable material, which also fulfils the functional and structural requirements of a design product.

Bio Chair – designed by Antonio Citterio

Bio Chair was designed using a revolutionary natural material devised by Kartell, who has continued to test and improve on the organic credentials and performance of an industrial product both beautiful and well made.

A few icons of the brand are revisited with the same bio material, such as Bourgie, Take and Cindy lamps by Ferruccio Laviani; Jolly small tables by Paolo Rizzatto and Tip Top table by Philippe Starck; Shanghai vase by Mario Bellini and I Shine vase by Eugeni Quitllet and Ghost Buster commode by Philippe Starck.

"For a designer, to work on the evolution of materials and above all, on biodegradable products over time is an extraordinary step, from the research perspective". Antonio Citterio

CARPET OF LIFE STORYTELLING THROUGH DESIGN

Carpet of Life is a social design brand. Using authentic crafts handed down through generations, women in the Sahara transform clothes and textiles into a vibrant Carpet of Life – an inspiring artwork. The Carpet of Life concept is based on traditional Moroccan carpets called Boucherouite or Boucherwi, made by most families from nomadic background. We work on upcycling: people in Europe possess lots of clothes and fabric they don't wear anymore but are still attached to.

Women from 4 villages in the Moroccan desert participate in making carpets for Carpet of Life. Through Carpet of Life, the traditions and craft culture is retained. The women are able to show the big potential of their creativity. By sharing their creativity they gain new aspirations and they are connected to other worlds. The carpets can be made from almost anything... second-hand clothing, tea towels, bed linen, even plastic! Current materials include recycled rag strips and yarns from 'found' textile remnants including wool, cotton, synthetic fibers, lurex and nylon.

6. Brussels city of Vintage & Brussels Design Market

The Brussels Design Market celebrates its 25th edition !

The Brussels Design Market was created over 15 years ago by three individuals passionate about vintage design, one of whom, Thierry Belenger, is still in charge of the organisation.

Since then, the Brussels Design Market has evolved – it is now the largest market devoted to vintage design in Europe - and has quickly become one of the must-attend events of the international vintage design sector.

A few important dates in the history of the Brussels Design Market:

The 1st edition takes place over one day and is held outside (in tents) on the place Saint-Lambert in Woluwé. There are around thirty exhibitors and only 3 or 4 international vendors (Dutch and German).

2010:

Eight years after its creation, the Brussels Design Market moves and takes place in the maritime station of Tour & Taxis. This allows the vendors to bring their vehicles directly to the exhibition site and to unpack their goods from the back of their vehicles. This year, the duration of the event will be extended to two days, allowing dealers from all over Europe to attend the event. The event then features 80 exhibitors and takes place twice a year, with editions in September and April.

September 2016:

The Brussels Design Market moves once again and finds a new home in the exhibition halls of Tour & Taxis. Eight thousand square metres solely designated to 20th-century design!

This location change allows the event to evolve in a very positive way, and to organise the exhibition halls in two clearly distinct atmospheres.

The first hall called "Expo" permits the exhibitors to properly showcase their merchandise through their stand, which is equipped with carpets, partition walls, and electricity.

The second hall called "Market" is inspired by the original concept of the fair, meaning that visitors can browse products displayed directly on the floor.

Since September 2017, thematic exhibitions are organised each edition and they showcase designers whose past successes are still as coveted today.

Last September, pieces by the Belgian ceramicists Piet Stockmans and Pierre Culot were presented. The March 2016 exhibition was dedicated to the iconic cabinet 'Amsterdammer' designed by Aldo Van den Nieuwlaar. This exhibition was organised in collaboration with the design producer Pastoe and the Diito, the Belgian design boutique.

Each edition attracts a larger number of exhibitors – presently over one hundred – and welcomes around 7000 visitors.

What is there to buy?

Over the years, the selection of merchandise exhibited has increased. Arriving from all over Europe, the dealers present an eclectic collection, bringing together multiple styles and trends that have impacted the 20th century. Visitors discover original and iconic pieces from Italian, French, American, and Scandinavian design created by the biggest names in the history of design, such as Sottsass, Le Corbusier, Eames, or Jacobsen and Panton. Alongside these icons, the Brussels Design Market also offers anonymous and exclusive design pieces at affordable prices.

Guest of honour for the 25th edition: Georges Pelletier

For the 25th edition of the Brussels Design Market and to celebrate the 80th anniversary of the artist, an exhibition will be dedicated to the creations of the ceramist Georges Pelletier.

His luminaires, his totems, and his atypical mirrors are all easily recognisable thanks to the handmade details that come together to produce unique sculptural pieces.

Biography:

Georges Pelletier is born on 9 October 1938 in Brussels. He takes courses at the École supérieure nationale des Arts et Métiers in Paris, where he gravitates towards ceramics. In parallel to his training, he works in Claude Pantzer's studio (ceramic sculptor 1930-1969), in the Poterie Accolay, and then in the studio La Roue de Vallauris. In 1961, he opens his own studio in Paris, where he subsequently creates his first unique pieces.

In 1963, he exhibits his pieces in the Saint-Ouen market and is picked up by the Maison Roche-Bobois, for which he creates many luminaires until 1973.

In 1973, he decides to move his studio to Cannes, where he still actively creates today.

Recently, enthusiasm for Pelletier's creations from the 1960s and 1970s has arisen due to vendors and decorators who are honouring his work. Today, Georges Pelletier continues to create new sculptural pieces, but also reproduces with passion his successes of the 1960s. An internationally renowned artist, his work is showcased in many galleries and exhibitions.

Exhibition: Italian Design (60s, 70s, 80s)

This exhibition will present an overview of design in Italy in the 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s. In these years, design studios such as Archizoom, Superstudio, Alchymia, or Memphis, and designers such as Andrea Branzi, Ettore Sottsass, and Joe Colombo developed a radical new vision of design and society.

Elements of the mythical and revolutionary exhibition "Italy: The New Domestic Landscape", organised by Emilio Ambasz at the MoMa in 1972, will be presented. This cult exhibition highlighted the dynamic and radical context in which Italian design and architecture of the 1970s evolved. Exhibited for the American public for the first time, these creations give rise to a reflection on the dissenting societal role of design. Design was conceived for a new way of life, with consideration to the evolution of the domestic environment: uninhibited, nomadic, and liberated.

7. Detailed A-Z programme

ANNE HOLTROP : A TABLE, A LAMP AND A DOOR HANDLE

07.09 > 17.11 – MANIERA
27-28 Place de la Justice, B-1000
Vernissage : 06.09 / 5pm > 9pm
+32(0)494 78 72 90
www.maniera.be

Anne Holtrop's work varies from spatial temporary models and pavilions to extensive public buildings. For instance, over the past several years, the Anne Holtrop Studio has designed the Museum Fort Vechten near Utrecht, and the National Pavilion of Bahrein for the world exhibition in Milan as well as for the Venice Architecture Biennial.

The starting point of Anne Holtrop's work is mostly existing materials or shapes that initially, and in itself, have nothing to do with architecture, to then develop these into something architectural. Both the handling and the (re)-interpretation of these forms and materials provide the architectural aspect.

The new Barbar furniture series designed by Anne Holtrop is named after Bahrein's Barbar Temble, an archaeological site located in the village of Barbar, and considered to be part of the Dilmun culture. The most recent of the three Barbar temples was rediscovered by a Danish archaeological team in 1954. A further two temples were discovered on the site with the oldest dating back to 3000 BC. The temples were built of limestone blocks, believed to have been carved out from Jidda Island.

The series consists of two tables, two lamps and a door handle. The tabletops and legs of the tables and the hoods of the lamps are incomplete forms, cut-outs of an abstract drawing based on the Barbar temples. The tables are made entirely from Italian silver travertine. A table lamp is made out of cast aluminium and cast glass. The shade of the floor lamp is made out of paper, handmade by the original Japanese manufacturer of Isamu Noguchi's Akari Light Sculptures, as a tribute to the master.

APORIE / EGO

"The real never interested anyone. It is a place of disenchantment, a simulacrum of accumulation against death. What sometimes renders the real fascinating is the imaginary catastrophe, which lies behind it"
Jean BAUDRILLARD

It is a questioning installation on the ambiguous truth / or falsehood on the function of the mirror object, and of our own reflection.

Chimerical and deceptive instrument, which is seductive and vertiginous for others only because each one is the first to loose themselves in it.

Concealing away from any grip that which it reflects with indifference, giving us things to see in order to better conceal.

Voyeur, which allows us to look at what the eyes do not want to face directly.

The presence of spikes reflects a dangerous path, which can lead to something else, the other side of the mirror? Incitement to meditate about the inevitable perils of life's course, about the vanity of appearances.

BEHIND THE CURTAIN – MID-CENTURY DESIGN IN DIVIDED EU

11.09 > 25.09 – Patyna

Vernissage: 11.09 / 6pm

The exhibition aims at presenting similarities and differences between mid-century design from both sides of the Iron Curtain, focusing on Polish design. Despite political and social distance, designers were inspired by similar aesthetics and trends, yet the way of executing their ideas was very different. While Western design objects were based on the best technology and high-quality materials, the East, with its government-controlled mass production, didn't have to worry about the demand. The exhibition will show how these objects combine into astonishing, ingenious and consistent heritage.

Besides showing the comparison in objects per se, the exhibition will touch the topic of the heritage of mid-century era in Western and post-soviet countries, where the design, by default free from any statements, is inseparable from the political context of the era of its origins. We will examine the historical impact on the reception of the design and present the fast-growing trend of appreciating the pure form without the historical burden - in many cases for the first time ever.

The trees together with the shadow pool proposed by POOL IS COOL coexist for a whole season to create, along with the studio Piovenefabi's furniture, a green space for fun and leisure, open and free to all. BUY NOW PAY LATER. Everything should be ecodesign.

07.09 > 07.10 – MAD

10 Place du Nouveau Marché aux Grains, B-1000

Vernissage : 7.09 / 6pm

+32(0)2 880 85 62

www.mad.brussels

From September 7th to October 7th, MAD will be presenting the exhibition Buy Now Pay Later. Everything should be ecodesign.

Buy Now Pay Later is the personal credit slogan that symbolizes blind, thoughtless consumption. Removed from its traditional context, this consumerist slogan here confronts us with a highly pragmatic reality. What if one were to calculate the impact of each product purchased now in order to assess the ecological price that will have to be paid later?

Is it even possible to talk about politics these days without talking about ecology? And likewise, can one even manufacture an object without considering the issue of the ecological footprint? Obviously not. Every object should be ecodesign. To break the deadlock of the linear economy in which waste continues to pile up, it will be necessary to design products that can be easily reused, repaired, reinvented and recycled.

The exhibition explores and disrupts the codes, directly addressing viewers concerns as consumers.

CAÈS is a label and a Belgian workshop based in Namur. Founded in 2017 by Amandine Lamand, it offers contemporary woven fabrics and textile objects for interior design. Each piece, designed like a painting is unique and carefully handcrafted in the workshop. CAÈS weaves and embroiders by initiating an exploratory and intuitive work without a priori on the results. A work that can be read as the plastic result of investigations always intimately linked to gestures in the creative process. Starting from the thread and questioning its structure, color and movement. Everything intertwines and merges to reveal special and exclusive visual effects.

At the same time, she develops textile workshops in different forms and she is taking part in public art by proposing facilities to experiment, exchange or observe the ancestral art of weaving through the design of participative or personal works.

Design Generations is an exhibition presented in collaboration with Wallonie-Bruxelles Design-Mode (WBDM) within the framework of Intersections, the ADAM's biennial contemporary design event. It invites visitors to take a fresh look at design by demonstrating the profound value of this profession, which has witnessed and often advocated changes in our society over the last century.

Ten Belgian design companies explain their approach through a selection of products, some from the past (permanently held in the Museum), some from the present (taken from their current collections) and some from the future (imaginary objects).

Through its multi-sensory approach, which reveals spatio-temporal links and intersections, the exhibition offers a true experience of the world of design, improving our understanding of the lives of the objects that surround us and of their intelligence, both retroactive and prospective. They are the interfaces of our everyday lives, custodians of the precious legacies of the past, agents of social and aesthetic experiences, models for sustainable production and development, and vehicles for innovative scenarios promising a better future.

Galerij Sabine Herman presenteert het « Enamel project »

Juwelen en kleine objecten, creaties van studenten of bekende artiesten, ontdek de schitterende wereld van email doorheen haar talrijke facetten. Dit materiaal heeft zijn eigen uitdrukking en geeft eenieder de mogelijkheid om de zin en de symboliek erachter te ontdekken.

Het gaat hierbij om een oeroude techniek die vandaag herleeft en ons nieuwe uitdrukkingvormen aanreikt. Een bijna vergeten ambacht komt terug tot leven en email wordt heruitgevonden.

Talrijke kleine uithollingen, fijne tussenschotjes of eenvoudige holtes in het metaal worden door het email geëgaliseerd. Nu eens als versiering, dan weer als hoofdelement van een creatie, het email staat steeds in dialoog met het metaal om het te veredelen. Het licht onthult ons de adembenemende schoonheid van de creaties, helemaal in kleur, ondoorschijnend of doorschijnend.

MACOCOÏ is a young collective from Brussels born in 2017. The 7 textile designers who made it work with textile through different techniques as weaving, screenprinting, lasercutting, embroidery, dyeing for design or art. From its free and composite structure, the collective wants to increase the value of the contemporary textile creation and make it exist under surprising forms.

« Habiter un lieu, est-ce se l'approprier? Qu'est ce que s'approprier un lieu? À partir de quand un lieu devient-il vraiment vôtre? »

Georges Perec

Collectif MACOCOÏ proposes a moving exhibition where objects will act as mutual creation places. Several events around the exhibition will invite the spectator to interact and experiment the collection in real time. The designers propose not only to exhibit their creations but also to make them evolve thanks to the hand of the spectator.

Carpet, textile partitions, cushions, tablecloths, napkins, plates, wallpaper will invade space during the time of the exhibition.

Invest a place and propose different ways to apprehend textile and object.

The idea is to develop materials, surfaces which invite to weave links between objects and user.

The exhibition space become then a playground between the productions, the collective members and the spectators.

MACOCOÏ will ask about different ways of using the objects.

FABRIQUE M is an exhibition to grab space and make it live through different sharing moments.

The MAD LAB is MAD's laboratory, a unique hub for innovation and collective intelligence in Brussels dedicated to mutual exchange in the field of design.

Ecodesign is an integral part of any creative process initiated in this multidisciplinary hub, which results in a unique definition when applied in fields including fashion, industrial, service, product, graphic, architecture or accessory design. While for many the term is still vague, the MAD LAB is where the future understanding of ecodesign is written.

For the occasion of Brussels Design September 2018, the young creative talents from the MAD Residencies use the environment of the workspaces to exhibit a selection of projects and share the ins and outs of their creative processes, centered around a common scenography.

The distinct backgrounds of the designers become apparent in the diverging interpretation and application of the ecodesign principles, emphasizing the relevance and applied character of ecodesign for our future.

As this year is a milestone for the institution, former residents of MAD as well guest designers are invited to complete the perspective. It is THE occasion to peek behind the scenes and discover the current location of the hub, before its move to MAD's headquarters.

#J'ACHETEBELGE / #IKKOOPBELGISCH

The #ikkoopbelgisch / #jachetebelge Circuit focusses on design labels from Belgium. The consumer wants to buy local, but it can be hard finding out which labels are actually local. This is even more the case in design as it is in fashion. Let's change this during Design September!

How? Come and follow the Ik Koop Belgisch / J'Achète Belge trail in the Dansaert district and be dazzled by the fascinating and stunning vitrines where design objects enter into the dialogue with surprising shops.

With the current international focus on Radical Design, or Contro Design, the Centro Studi Poltronova is presenting, as part of September Design 2018, a historical exhibition at the Italian Cultural Institute in Brussels. The exhibition brings together, for the first time, a series of iconic objects designed and produced by Poltronova between the late 1960s and early 1970s, when Ettore Sottsass was the company's art director. The exhibition includes the Superonda sofa, the Sanremo lamp and Archizoom Associati's Mies armchair; the Sofa armchair/sofa, the T01 coffee table, and Superstudio's Gherpe and Passiflora lamps; Ettore Sottsass's Ultrafragola mirror/lamp and De Pas, D'Urbino and Lomazzi iconic armchair Joe.

The goal of the exhibition is to communicate the extraordinary vitality and irreverence that distinguished these design projects at the time of their conception – a vitality and irreverence that live on even today. These almost over-sized toys, then and now, are objects that challenge the automatism of consumer society through their hybrid use, which guarantees a total freedom of approach.

The exhibition, also thanks to the way it is arranged, which, like the exhibition's subtitle, aesthetically echoes the series of paintings in Alberto Savinio's "transparent cities", communicates the colourful, explosive vitality of those years, suggesting that it is still possible to be in sync with those designs even today.

The Crabe d'Or is born from a desire of creation with and on the island of Madagascar. Its culture, its craftsmen, its resources and its landscapes are the workshop's matters.

The capital of Madagascar, Antananarivo - village of a thousand - owes its name to the thousand soldiers who formed the royal guard of the Merina kingdom. Nowadays, the village has become a city and only remains a rock of stone - laid on the Queen's Palace - from the thousands of warriors. The man who could lift it used to become a soldier.

In Antananarivo, hills and sawmills are part of the landscape. This goes hand in hand with the strong handcrafted heritage - wood, iron, clay ... - of Madagascar. Whether singular, daily or architectural objects, the achievements of the Crabe d'Or always result from a confluence between architects and craftsmen, knowledge and know-how. When one draws, the other one decrypts then manufactures. The know-how completes the thought. And conversely, it can sometimes replace the hand's power - his findings.

In Malagasy, "volana" means both "moon" and "month". In the language, the time is linked to the environment. And yet, in two hundred years, facing deforestation, tavy cultivation - burning primary forests to make rice paddies and pasture for zebus - the island will be fully peeled. The Easter Island myth weighs in on the red island. We are also working on a land-use planning project in the Highlands of the island to introduce "a balance between Man, his behavior and his environment".

Linda Topic and Léa Ricorday join their forces to define a research field that questions the leopard. An animal, a print, the great predator, a classic motif, a symbol of power, an emblem of vulgarity and sexiness, pure fantasy ... What happens when its forms intercross or when used as an attire? Besides, what specific species of panther inspired our current graphic representations? When did the first feline motifs appear and what do they imply? What is the relationship between Shiva, Betty Page and Mobutu and the woman seen on the subway yesterday? What are we showing off in the streets with our designs? Of what is the city the playground?

In books, on the street, through gathered anecdotes and collected knowledge, in the workshop, at the café, Léa Ricorday and Linda Topic question the leopard's presence, its proliferation, its persistence, its insistence and many mutations.

Lise El Sayed was born in 1980 in France. After completing training in visual arts, she studied textile design at La Cambre National School of Visual Art in Brussels. Since 2007 Lise El Sayed works on self-initiated projects and productions in Brussels.

Lise El Sayed follows a personal approach centred on objects and textiles. Her work focuses on the research of textile, materials and structures and how these influence the use and identity of everyday objects. Characterized by their diversity, her products are simple and coherent. Behind each of her pieces, there is a story, one that involves material, people, usage and memory.

Series of objects spring forth from investigations of and experimentations with materials, open without any preconceptions concerning the results; a mirror, a shelf, a cover, a rug, ... Day-to-day objects illuminated by an original approach. She explores different possible levels of working on the design of textiles, from the raw material to the finished product.

Both craft-related and industrial process are used, sometimes successively, on the same object. She deals with different types of structures and with processes that reveal unexpected aspects of the materials. Radical and precise gesture give used or discarded items a new shape and functionality.

----- Porte-Bagages (luggage rack)

(Luggage rack) is inspired by the old train rack, made of threads. A serie of adjustable shelves whose storage space is determined by the content's volume, weight and form, it adapts and transforms to collect our everyday objects, and unconsciously invites to travel,

Today's digital and IT-focused age provides us with many tools to make our lives easier or simpler. At the same time however it deprives us of many previously natural abilities and skills. We are losing our sense of orientation, we don't know how to plan, and if we can't find a piece of information on Google, we think it doesn't exist. Likewise, due to the massive spread of 3D modelling and print, new generations of students are losing their intuition for materials and their tectonics, for a sense of scale. Perhaps it is just a period of transition, after which an age of bionics will come and all today's technologies will be incorporated into qualitatively new beings.

Before that happens, we want to provide students with real-world experiences through the use of analogue processes – sketching by hand, working with materials in the workshop, using basic mechanical principles.

Our presentation focuses on the mechanical propulsion of various products or artistic objects. Students of the Product Design studio created analogue clocks, gramophones, toys and moving sculptures that use the "guts" of old alarm clocks, sewing machines, mechanical winding mechanisms or the principles thereof.

We believe in the playfulness and also the aesthetic of machines, which can help us expand our virtual horizons.

Midway between the ephemeral and the aesthetic, flowers due to be recycled are rescued by Marcin Rusak, who gives them a new lease of life. He incorporates them into tables and lamps, as well as sculptures. Through his creations, he investigates the nature of obsolescence; each work develops in its own way, bacteria and light cause every piece to evolve over time. But let us hear from the artist himself : "Once the flowers fulfil our decorative or symbolic needs, they become an unwanted and discarded reminiscence of life. Treated and processed, through my materials they regain significance and become part of a work which references their very temporary nature. I use them as a medium to talk about consumption where I investigate the flower production landscape, and other times I use them as a material itself."

The Age of Glass is a group exhibition showcasing a curated selection of recent and new art and design works created by more than 25 creatives around the theme of contemporary glass and highlighting the renewal of contemporary glass art and design practices that are all Made in Meisenthal, France. Featured artists and designers: Werner Aisslinger, François Azambourg, Ferreol Babin, Berger & Berger, BL 119, Andreas Brandolini, Mark Braun, François Daireaux, David Dubois, Fabrice Domercq, Christelle Familiari, Grim Design, Stéphane Halmaï -Voisard, David Hanauer, Sabine Marcelis, Régis Mayot, Jasper Morrison, Françoise Petrovitch, Fred Rieffel, Berta Riera Pomes, Studio Monsieur, Claude Saos, Borek Sipek, V8 Designers, Tibor Weissmahr.

The Meisenthal glassworks was founded in 1704 in the massif des Vosges du Nord, in eastern France. The factory, which counted 650 staff, closed its doors in 1969. In 1992, the International Glass Art Centre (Le Centre International d'Art Verrier, or CIAV,) of Meisenthal restarted the first kiln on the brownfield site. CIAV's objective was to preserve the technical heritage of the region and to reinstate the traditional glassworks production by welcoming contemporary designers into the workshops. On one side is the glassworker, his hands, his knowledge of the traditional technical alphabet, his self-assurance. On the other is the designer, his universe, his questionings. And between the two, the desire to write, together, new stories of the objects. For the designers, beyond the glass itself is the entire village of Meisenthal, which becomes building material. The residents, the brownfield land, the ghosts of its workers, its morning mist, the majestic forest... in other words, the spirit of the sites, which generates a unique, endemic energy that is reflected in the objects that are born there ... CIAV edits, under the « Meisenthal-France » brand, small series of glass objects that fulfil the mechanics of the crossover between traditional multi-secular technique and the dreams of the contemporary creators. The pieces presented in the exhibit were conceived by artists or designers. They are the produced in either open or limited series or may be unique pieces or prototypes.

Lecture "School of Applied Arts in Bratislava (1928-1939)", Slovak Design Centre and Exhibition "Young Design & Craft from Bratislava", Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts

The lecture "School of Applied Arts in Bratislava (1928-1939)" of the curator Ms. Simona Beresova from the Slovak Design Centre will concentrate on the history of the school followed by screening of documentaries. The School of Applied Arts, also called ŠUR, was established 90 years ago in 1928 and it has fundamentally influenced the Slovak visual culture as well as education of art in Slovakia and the Czech Republic. It was an advocate of the international art school reform movement, which comprised institutions such as the German Bauhaus. Many international artists, designers, architects and art critics like Hannes Mayer, Ernő Kállai and L. Moholy-Nagy had contacts with the school and came to Bratislava to present their work there. The School of Applied Arts was closed before the WW2 in 1939 and reopened after the war with its successor the Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts, which exists until nowadays.

Students of the Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts prepare an exhibition of their works. Samples of current student work from the contemporary activities of several school departments are made of different materials such as paper, wood, stone, ceramics, textile, etc. They will be presented in the exhibition „Young Design & Craft from Bratislava.“

Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts, Slovakia

Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts in Bratislava is the oldest art school in Slovakia, originally founded as the School of Applied Arts (ŠUR) in 1928. Its methodology and scope of education was deliberately linked to the growing European trend in art education set by the German avant-garde Bauhaus school. Historian, theorist of folk arts, ethnographer and educationist Josef Vydra became the founder and the first director of ŠUR.

ŠUR functioned until 1938 when, due to the influence of European fascism, its activities were halted by the authorities. After World War II the School of Art Industries (SAI) was re-established.

Josef Vydra School of Applied Arts (SAA) is a new name of our school which characterises its current concept and specification on developing and avant-garde ideas. The curriculum involves general and practical subjects and is specified according to a particular course focusing on the synthesis of theoretical, technical, and art skills. Our school has already educated several generations of significant artists and experts who have contributed to the development of Slovak art life and represented it in the world.

In 2007 it published a 500-page book with more than a thousand photographs and colour reproductions that maps the school's history from its foundation to the present.

Slovak Design Centre, Bratislava

The Slovak Design Centre (SDC) was established in 1991 by the Ministry of Culture. The mission of SDC as the only professional organization for this field is to gather, store, and spread information about design, to initiate and create platforms for development and support of design in Slovakia, and to suggest conceptions of design development.

The objective of the SDC is to research, evaluate and explain design, architecture and applied arts in the society through exhibitions in Slovak Museum of Design. STORYTELLING THROUGH DESIGN

21.09 > 23.09 – Carpet of Life

Vernissage : 21.09 / 11am > 7pm

www.carpetoflife.com

Carpet of Life is a social design brand. Using authentic crafts handed down through generations, women in the Sahara transform clothes and textiles into a vibrant Carpet of Life – an inspiring artwork. The Carpet of Life concept is based on traditional Moroccan carpets called Boucherouite or Boucherwi, made by most families from nomadic background. We work on upcycling: people in Europe possess lots of clothes and fabric they don't wear anymore but are still attached to.

Women from 4 villages in the Moroccan desert participate in making carpets for Carpet of Life. Through Carpet of Life, the traditions and craft culture is retained. The women are able to show the big potential of their creativity. By sharing their creativity they gain new aspirations and they are connected to other worlds. The carpets can be made from almost anything... second-hand clothing, tea towels, bed linen, even plastic! Current materials include recycled rag strips and yarns from 'found' textile remnants including wool, cotton, synthetic fibers, lurex and nylon.

Stéphane THOMAS is a furniture designer and creator of individual pieces, who expresses his artistic feelings by mixing modern and traditional production techniques to achieve pure aesthetics in his work.

After graduating with a Master's degree in industrial design at Ecole Supérieure des Arts de Liège (Saint-Luc Art School), he joined the Companions of the Duty to restore historical buildings. In 2018, he opened his studio in Brussels where he now showcases some of his work. Originally from the Vosges mountains in France, a region famous for its wood, he started his career by training in Carpentry.

His work bears the signature of his origins and experiences which he acquired by experimenting with various materials ranging from locally-sourced wood to ropes, including steel and rocks.

Stéphane's main ambition is to master transformation techniques whilst respecting raw materials which serve to embellish the final piece. By letting his imagination run wild and by subtly playing with colours he makes each of his creations unique and beautiful, while remaining very practical as any high-quality furniture should be.

Steel and wood intertwine in an audacious set of shelves. Ultra practical desks are the norm with allocated spaces for each object. A chair becomes a wave where the body can relax. Welcome to THOMAS's universe.

Full of great ideas and open to the world surrounding him, Stéphane has signed many partnerships over the years.

He collaborates with an ambassador of French hair care affiliated to l'Oréal, and is in charge of recreating the interior design of their salons while working on their corporate identity. Passionate about glass, he joined forces with the Sprimoglass factory in Liege and now experiments with new production, moulding and colouring techniques.

OUR STUDIO

Louis Herman De Koninck (1896-1984) has worked extensively on domestic architecture, single-family residences and small apartment buildings. He is presented as a dominant figure of the "modern" movement in Belgium, which followed the Art Nouveau without causing a real caesura.

Caroline Notté and her team are delighted to have been able to set up their studio in the personal house of De Koninck, realized in Uccle, 105 avenue Fond'Roy, in 1924, at a time when he begins to be applauded by the leaders of the "avant-garde" movement. This reflection on the cube and concrete drove the architect through his search of prototypes of cheap houses, in the midst of a severe housing crisis. De Koninck proved to be an indefatigable inventor, constantly studying new products and techniques, such as plain concrete, insulating panels and industrialized window frames.

Another notable achievement of the architect is the standardized Cubex kitchen manufactured in thousands of copies and still found in some Brussels buildings dating from 1930 to 60.

De Koninck also designed pavilions and advertising booths for exhibitions, but was always happy to return to building houses.

This spirit of innovation, creativity and audacity continues today to animate the place and remains a permanent source of inspiration for Caroline.

THE GALLERY

The gallery is open every Thursday and Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 pm. We're showing a selection of contemporary furniture, vintage art and design, sculptures, photographs etc. to highlight established and emerging artists. The "Gallery" section of the website www.carolinenotte.com appears as an inexhaustible source of inspiration, with a larger selection than some of the pieces exhibited Avenue Fond'Roy. And this, to emphasize the universe of Caroline Notté.

ABOUT

Caroline Notté (b. 1977 – Belgian)
Architect – Interior Designer – Fine Art Photographer

Based in Brussels, Caroline Notté (CN) has always been moved by the appealing scenes and atmospheres she has encountered around the world. An avid traveller and adventurer, her work captures these experiences to create astonishment and spark aspirations.

After graduating from the Academy of Arts in Brussels, CN complemented her studies with a degree in Architecture at La Cambre in Brussels, achieving the highest distinction. With an artistic background and specialised in a major form of art – Architecture – CN then chose to enhance her CV as a complete all-round artist, training in Photography in New-York at the New York Institute of Photography.

Prior to launching her own practice, she welcomed the opportunity to develop her sense and vision of space while working for Marc Corbiau for two years. To further develop her professional experience, CN then cooperated with the interior designer Lionel Jadot for four years.

This diverse education and experience finally led CN to open her own practice, offering a multi-disciplinary approach to her work. As a result, she combines her training with talent to create exceptional artworks that are in harmony with the client's domain.

As an architect, interior designer, photographer and professor at the College of Advertising & Design, CN views herself as Andrée Putman puts it, a "multi-facetted artist".

CN assembles images, materials, stories and impressions as roadmaps that define her distinctive language. This specific tone and character is then translated into environments as varied as a hotel, a fashion boutique, an office, a house, etc.

She is always keen to create amazement through her artworks, dismissing the dreary sensation of "déjà vu". When representing cities and landscape, she goes beyond the reproduction of the abstract beauty of nature and its kaleidoscope of colours, attempting to pave her own way between fiction, documentary and imagination.
